

Tohi Cloudberry Mist Nordic Dry Gin

The best stories start, or at least – end with falling in love. Cliché? Perhaps. But one can also fall in love with...gin. Add a pinch of courage, chase of new taste experiences and here you go: Tohi Cloudberry Mist Nordic Dry Gin was born. Distilled in classic pot still method, using Nordic cloudberries, Estonian rye spirit and bitter juniper berries. Don't forget few secret spices and a fact, as far as we are aware – there are just 3 cloudberry gins out there!

APPEARANCE

Golden, light tan color.

This is the "fault" of honeyed Immortelle Flower infusion.

AROMA

The nose hints sweet citrus fruits, blend of herbal notes of wild forests and aromatic flowers. Then follows the genuine palette of the gin: sweet cloudberry, a hint of cinnamon and the bitterness of juniper.

PALATE

Honeyed, passionate and a dry gin with a character. Nordic ripe cloudberry interweaves with passion fruit nectar and spicy cardamom. The aftertaste is lingering, detectable notes of orange peel and exotic spices.

SERVING

Take a nice copa glass and fill it with ice. Pour 4 cl of Tohi Cloudberry Mist Gin, add 20 cl of quality tonic. Perfectionate with a slice of orange. Should you prefer a dryer cocktail, add some orange peel instead. Give the drink a gentle stir and get ready to fall in love!

TOHISOO DISTILLERY

Tohi Gin is heartcrafted at the Tohisoo manor old vodka distillery dating back to 19th century, when Estonia was supplying the mighty Russian Empire with tons of spirit. Decades and few revolutions later, a leather factory settled in, crafting fashionable purses and gloves for women. The factory did not pass the test of time of the turbulent era of 21st century and the old building remained empty. Until discovered by the enthusiastic team of Tohi Gin, who fell in love with that place as much as they loved gin.

You have probably guessed by now, why our gin is called TOHI. Coincidentally, the word "tohi" means in Estonian also "why not" or "you can". Well, why not?
